Why Have a Broader Definition of Success?

Community Values

We inherit the future we inspire today. Do we want helpless handwringing when hard problems emerge, or do we want impassioned leaders to stand up and take action?

When students are passionate, they are engaged. When students are empowered, they are unstoppable. Unleash our students to change the world, and we might just see the change we want in education happen at the same time.

-Vicki Davis, edutopia blogger

Community Values

“Education should nurture the ability for students to deal with difference, and learn about acceptance and respect.”

“The social, emotional and cognitive components of a student are intertwined and cannot be segregated. We cannot advance one and ignore the others. Full engaged, contributing citizens need to have worthwhile work to do. We need to teach subjects that are relevant in the world.”

-Calgary Thought Leaders
